

PEOPLE SYSTEMS FOR FOUNDERS

Before you buy an HRIS, open a spreadsheet

Built from four startup people functions

FIRST PRINCIPLE

A tool cannot repair an undefined process

It only gives the confusion a cleaner interface.

Start with the decision

What will leadership do differently after seeing this information?

Track less

Headcount, open roles, hiring movement, attendance patterns, leave exposure, and early retention signals.

Name an owner

Every number needs one person responsible for updating it and one rhythm for review.

Know when to upgrade

Move beyond the spreadsheet when access, scale, history, or compliance becomes the actual constraint.

Start cheap. Stay disciplined.

Buy complexity only when complexity earns its place.
